The association between comorbid personality disorders and borderline personality disorder in first-episode schizophrenia. The aim of this study was to investigate whether comorbid personality disorders (PDs) are specifically associated with borderline personality disorder (BPD) in first-episode schizophrenia. We examined the association between BPD and comorbid PDs, compared to schizophrenia with no PDs, in 51 first-episode schizophrenia patients. We investigated also whether age, gender and severity of schizophrenia and/or BPD had an influence on the relationship between PDs and BPD. In the 77a5ca646e
